SPEAKER BIO - LONG VERSION

Valerie Wilson Peterson is a passionate speaker, writer, and encourager – and the heart behind Hope Defined Me, a ministry dedicated to helping women reject lies, walk in truth, and ignite their God-given purpose.

An overcomer who has endured hidden battles and seasons of feeling unseen, Valerie knows what it's like to wrestle in the waiting. Her story is one of transformation – from the messy middle to miraculous healing – and she now creates powerful spaces where women can get real, be restored, and rise again.

Through storytelling, Biblical truth, and Spirit-led encouragement, Valerie breathes life into weary hearts and reminds women that they are never forgotten and never disqualified. Whether she's teaching Bible studies, leading workshops, or speaking at conferences, Valerie's mission is the same: to equip women to embrace the freedom and identity that Christ has already secured for them.

Originally from Virginia, Valerie has called the Tampa Bay area home for nearly 50 years. She shares life with her husband Larry, her son and step-son, and their beloved rescue pets. Valerie has also hosted Testimony Tuesday, a Facebook Live series where guests share stories of God's faithfulness, inspired by Revelation 12:11. This isn't just ministry to her – it's a Kingdom assignment. And she's walking it out with authenticity, boldness, and a heart full of hope.
